Official City and County Paper.

THE work of laying rails on the Holdredge branch was commenced on Tuesday of this week.

JOHN McCULLOUGH, the celebrated tragedian, has been put in the insane asylum at Bloomington.

THE Red Cloud Helmet by Will N. King is the latest addition to the journalism of the valley, we believe.

THE Norfolk Journal will either have to hire a printer or send us a key. We are not connoisseurs of hieroglyphics.

WE see it stated that Cheyenne county will shortly be formed into three counties. There is enough land in Cheyenne to make three large counties.

WE are indebted to the Fairbury Gazette for a copy of the Jefferson County premium list for the annual fair to be held September 1-4, 1885. The book is from the Gazette presses.

THE Gosper County Citizen, which has moved to the new town Elwood, says that the Lincoln Land Co., owners of the town, have agreed to expend $2,000 in the construction of water works for the free use of the city.

THE Kaleidoscope is the name of R. H. Montgomery's new paper at Cambridge. We are at a loss to understand the matter, but presume the editor of the Kaleidoscope will illumine our mind upon the why-fore, in his issue, which will appear next week.

THE Pall Mall Gazette publishes a proclamation of the Ameer of Afghanistan, issued in 1882, but which has not hitherto found its way into western literature, reviewing the history of the Afghans and claiming that they are the descendants of the ten tribes of Israel. It traces their descent from Adam through Jacob, their subjection in Egypt, their deliverance by Moses, their wanderings in the desert and their settlement in Syria under the amership of Saul and Solomon, to their Babalonian captivity, their release, their wanderings on the hills of Ghor, and their final settlement in Afghanistan. It concludes by exhorting his people to trust in God, who will preserve them from their terrible enemy, Russia, who is waiting to devour them. It has been noticed by all recent tourists in Afghanistan that the resemblance of the Afghans to the Jews is remarkable, and possibly the ameer is assisting to solve a great ethnological mystery by recalling the traditions of his nation.

DIED.

By request we publish the following obituary. The deceased, who so bravely met death is the son of Mr. Angel and brother of Mrs. H. C. Jacobs of this place. The article is taken from the Denison (Iowa) Review:

ANGEL—In Denison, on Saturday, June 7th, Albert Angel, aged 16 years, by drowning, in the Boyer river, while endeavoring to give assistance to the Jerome Blackman family.

"Greater love hath no man than this: that a man lay down his life for his friends." Thus saith the Son of Man. Young Angel was not even acquainted with the persons struggling for life in imminent peril, but we have the evidence of eye witnesses that he urged his horse into the water three times to render aid. He had fallen from his horse once already but ventured into the water again, when he fell and was drowned.

Christianity is of value to humanity for three things: It declares the immortality of the soul; it promises eternal bliss to those who believe and persevere to the end. It is surprising that ministers of the gospel—the ambassadors of the Savior—should so often fail at the supreme moment when the white banner of victory ought to be waved in triumph over the grave, by halting hesitancy and uncertainty of sound.

The last and crowning act of Albert Angel's life being one of supreme and disinterested devotion—exceeding that of the good Samaritan—a devotion which overcame the love of life and the fear of death, we pronounce the judgment by authority of the Savior's promise that those who lay down their lives for their friends have trodden in his footsteps, and have complied with his commands. If the thief upon the cross could be saved there is not a particle of doubt that Albert Angel is a welcome guest in the realms of bliss, for of such is the kingdom of heaven.

On the 30th day of May the soldiers' graves were strewn with flowers in commemoration of their disinterested devotion to the country. Pence also presents opportunities to crown one's life with the laurel wreaths of victory. By every test that can be applied, Albert Angel's act was one of bravery and disinterestedness, and just such youths as he rushed to arms twenty-five years ago at the country's call, and would go to-day.

Mr. Angel's body was found on Wednesday morning. It was tenderly cared for, and the funeral services which were held in the court house square at 3 P. M., were well attended. Extracts from the Scriptures were read and a prayer was made. While time did not permit of more extended services or of the organization of a choir, which was greatly missed—we hope that there will be union services in the Court House square after the other victims of the calamity are buried.

The sorrow-stricken parents have our profoundest sympathy. They must not look down into the waters nor into the grave for their beloved boy. He still lives. He is yet among us. He will reach out his hand when they struggle through the dark waters that divide life and death, and land them safely on the shining shore of heaven.
